Solving Home
Problems Helps
With Big Ones

That common-sense philosopher William Feather has this to say in the current issue of Imperial Type Metal magazine:

"Paul Mallon one day said that what the world lacked was local leadership. He said he got the idea from a government man. This Washington fellow said neither we nor any of our neighbors on the planet would get anywhere until little leaders everywhere focused their attention on local problems they could comprehend. Then, he concluded, the big problems might take care of themselves.

The very day we read this we discussed national affairs with an auditor and we commented cynically that everybody was out to improve his personal financial position. That if he could do so logically he would pursue his personal interest even though the national interest was jeopardized.

"We were astonished when our friend said that promotion and protection of personal interest were precisely his idea of what was needed everywhere.

Every honest and productive man is concerned first of all with himself and his immediate family. If we want to eat and enjoy even meager resources, the question to ask every day is 'What shall I do?' and not 'What shall we do?'

"If 'we' means dumping our problems on Washington, we won't get a solution of what ails us, as individuals. By following that technique for many years we have created muddle and confusion from which we can extricate ourselves only by going back to first principles."

Double Talk a la Russe
It has been suggested that Russia and the western powers could get along together, if only they could understand each other.

Because so few Russians are permitted to see our civilization, and so few non-Communists are permitted to see Russia, we have exchanged information and ideas in words. But even after they have been translated, words do not always mean the same thing to the two peoples.

There are some who argue that Moscow has not violated the various agreements solemnly made by Messrs. Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin, but has observed them strictly, as she understood them. It is our fault, they feel, that we did not understand those words and phrases the same as Stalin, Molotov and Vishinsky did.

In hope of avoiding some future misunderstandings, here are a few definitions of words and phrases constantly used by Soviet and Communist spokesmen, which mean something different to them than to us:

Aggression: Any attempt by a non-Soviet nation to encourage or help a small country resist Soviet interference.

Collective bargaining: For Russian workers, a process by which they are permitted to ask for small favors. For American workers, the right of the workers to demand what they want from the boss—or else.

Co-operation: Unquestioning acceptance of the Soviet will and viewpoint.

Democracy: Rule by the Soviet Union, or by agents selected and directed by the Kremlin. A legislature is permissible if it limits itself to ratifying decisions of the Soviet agents.

Election: A poll in which voters can vote for one approved list of candidates—or, if they dare—can vote against it, but not for an opposition slate.

Fascist: One who criticizes the Soviet Union, praises capitalism, or objects to having native Communists work for the Soviet Union against the interests of their own country.

Freedom of press: The privilege of printing what the Kremlin has authorized. Also the privilege of publishing what the Kremlin has forbidden—with the risk of liquidation if it is something the Kremlin would have forbidden if it had thought in time.

Freedom of speech: The privilege of agreeing verbally with one's superiors say.

Imperialism: Similar to aggression, with the further meaning that the non-Soviet nation (usually the U. S. or England) is helping the weak country in order to establish economic and political domination.

Labor union: An organization of workers through which they can be told where to work, how long under what condition, and for how much pay.

Monopoly: Any business that has become big.

Right: (None!) The nearest synonym in English is privilege or sufferance; there are no rights in Russia as we understand them. (Adjective) Only communism and the Soviet Union are right; everybody and everybody else is wrong.

Soviet Union: One controlled by Moscow, but permitted to have its own officials, provided they Continued on Page Two

Mackrell Opens Campaign With Address Here

James (Uncle Mac) Mackrell, radio evangelist, formally opened his campaign for governor here last night with an address at the Hope City Hall.

He was accompanied by a quartet that entertained the small crowd with sacred songs. Downpour throughout the day held attendance to less than 100 persons but the audience was attentive and songs by the quartet drew loud applause.

In behalf of his candidacy Mackrell outlined eight reasons why he should be elected governor of Arkansas.

1. Constitutional Government. He cited the fiscal control suit and a pending suit against "legalized gambling in Arkansas". He apparently was referring to horse racing.

2. Home rule without any interference from Little Rock and as much protection as possible from Washington.

3. A centralized purchasing office for the state with no spending by department heads.

4. The best road system in the nation with every state road black-topped and all mail and bus routes graded, graveled and made all-weather roads.

5. Best school system in the nation, higher pay for teachers and the election of superintendents and state school officials.

6. Best of care possible for old folks, crippled, sick and blind.

7. A real home demonstration club in every community with market to sell surplus supplies.

8. Two years of honest government.

Mackrell talked about his candidacy only a few minutes, devoting the large part of his time to running his quartet and showing pictures of his two homes for children. He outlined his work for the children's homes in detail, returning each location and telling how all was made possible through donations.

Prior to his address he gave away small bags of flour to oldest married couple, couple with the youngest child, mother of the most children and one who came the greatest distance.

Midwest Area Suffers Heaviest Snow

By UNITED PRESS

The winter's heaviest snowfall in many areas of the Midwest today blocked highways, grounded airplanes, and delayed railroad service.

A thick snow blanket fell in a belt from the Rocky Mountains to the Great Lakes region. The heaviest fall was in Northern Kansas, Eastern Nebraska, Central Iowa, Northern Illinois, Southern Wisconsin and lower Michigan.

Special storm warnings were issued for Lake Michigan and Lake Huron with winds reaching a velocity of 35 to 40 miles per hour.

South of the snow belt, steel and freezing rain fell over a wide area.

United Airlines said its western flights as far west as Grand Island, Neb., were closed.

Officials said the line expects to resume Western service early tomorrow.

Laney Calls for Party 'Cleanup'

Little Rock, March 2—(UPI)—Arkansas Governor Ben T. Laney wants the Southern Governor's conference to lead an effort "to clean up the Democratic Party."

Mr. Coffey said addressed return envelopes had been enclosed in each package of Easter Seals mailed out and urged that everyone sign a proposed committee report to the full conference meeting in Washington, March 13.

In it, the Arkansas chief executive called for repudiation of the party's present leadership of party.

The five-member committee was appointed by the Southern Governor's conference at Tallahassee, Fla., Feb. 7 to confer with Democratic State Committee Chairman J. Howard McGrath.

In his suggested report, Laney Continued on Page Two

'Free' Nations of Europe to Form Alliance

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

Washington, March 2—(P)—A report blasting the head of the government's Bureau of Standards as "one of the weakest links in our atomic security" spurred two congressional committees into action today.

Dr. Edward U. Condon, the 46-year-old scientist so accused by a House Un-American Activities subcommittee, retorted:

"This is gratifying information because I'm absolutely reliable and therefore we have nothing to worry about. The country can relax."

Condon accompanying Condon charged that he "knowingly or unknowingly engaged and associated with alleged Russian spies."

He said he was too vague to talk about. "I certainly didn't do it knowingly."

The House group contend that "this is dangerous and chaotic state of affairs in Europe and there is fear in Europe—wide-spread fear—and that is due mainly to a spread of dictatorships being intensified by events of the recent days," the prime minister declared.

His announcement, which came only a few hours after foreign office spokesman said it would be a matter of weeks before anything concrete would be done to implement Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's union proposal of Jan. 22, apparently reflected a new feeling of urgency in London.

The feeling seemed to be sparked by a desire both for speeding economic recovery under the Marshall plan and for political unity in western Europe, especially in the light of the Communist victory in Czechoslovakia and the pressure on Finland.

"In this country they haven't gotten as far as they did in Czechoslovakia but they got pretty far, because they got a man vice president of the United States," he said.

The committee said the situation as regards Dr. Condon is not an isolated one."

"There are other government officials in strategic positions who are playing Stalin's game to the detriment of the United States," it declared. "The evidence before our subcommittee indicates very strongly that there is an operation at the present time in the United States an extensive Soviet espionage ring."

"To permit this ring to continue, in view of the high atomic prizes which they are seeking, is folly, and can only lead to ultimate disaster."

Meanwhile, from Walter Reed Army hospital here where he is under treatment for a stomach ailment, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R-N.J.) indicated he may call a bedside meeting of the Full Un-American Activities Committee.

Tabernacle Revival Continues

The Evangelist, Rev. Clarence Smith, who is in revival at the Tabernacle, discussed the subject "How to Have a Revival" at the services on Monday evening. He used as his basic scripture Psalms 133. According to the Old Testament description of "the precious ointment," it was to be specially anointed by the apothecaries and there was none to be made like unto it. That is, it was not to be duplicated or substituted. The Evangelist stated that there was no substitute for the anointing of the Holy Spirit. He also said that the anointing oil was to be placed on only three classes of people, the kings, prophets and priests. But when Jesus came with His three-fold ministry He opened up the way for all persons to have the anointing of the Holy Spirit, which compares in the New Testament with the anointing oil of the Old Testament.

As the oil was poured upon Aaron's head in the basic scripture used, and ran down on the skirts of his garments, likewise all the members of the body of Christ are Reilly did the actual shooting while Budzynski acted as lookout outside Colsky's store. They were captured in St. Louis where they fled after the killing.

"The man who did kill that man (Colsky) has told the governor that Danny didn't have anything to do with it," he said.

Hugh Helm, Budzynski's lawyer, attorney, said one of the condemned boy's last requests was to be allowed to marry Jean.

"I think she wants to observe that last request," Helm said.

Helm told Miss Lucas that Tennessee law would not permit her to divorce Budzynski as long as he remained in prison if his sentence should be commuted. He quoted her as replying that "I love him but almost every possible obstacle seemed to bar Miss Lucas' frantic attempts to wed the boy she loves."

When she came here with Budzynski's sister, Henrietta, to apply for a marriage license, she found that Tennessee has a three-day waiting period if the execution place on schedule, three days would be too long to wait.

selection, but some party leaders say they anticipate a hard fight to keep control of the Senate.

Senator Brewster (R-Me.) told a reporter the GOP high command fully realizes it is possible for the Republicans to elect a president but still lose the Senate if the contest is close outside the South.

Later in the day some 75 Southern Democratic congressmen planned to hold a second "strategy" meeting to map further plans to fight this and other disputed civil rights measures.

Brewster noted that the Dixie critics of Mr. Truman are arranging carefully to keep their Democratic party label, even though they may finally decide to deny the president their electoral votes. These developments pointed up Brewster's remarks.

El. H. Crump, leader of Tennessee's powerful Shelby County Democratic organization, issued a statement saying: "In his sobering, cold-blooded effort to outdo Henry Wallace and Governor Dewey of New York for the Negro vote, he (Mr. Truman) has endeavored to reduce the South to a country of crawling cowards."

"I will vote for a Democrat next November," Crump declared, "but it will not be Truman."

The South Carolina Democratic executive committee adopted a resolution opposing Mr. Truman's nomination for election. The state committee charged the national party with "contemptuous political betrayal" of the South.

In Jackson, Miss., the party's state executive committee asked the delegates to the national convention to walk out unless the party reversed itself on the civil rights issue.

Gov. Ben T. Laney of Arkansas formally recommended that Southern Democrats repudiate the national leadership. He proposed that a letter to Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina be incorporated in a report to the Southern Governors' Conference here March 13.

Republicans figure that Southerners will go along with the national Democratic party on organization of the next Senate, no matter how their argument with the president comes out.

Republican control now is slender—a six-vote edge of 51 to 45. Of 32 senators up for election, 18 are Republicans and 14 Democrats. Ten of these Democrats are from the South where Republicans stand little chance.

On the other hand, the Republicans have no territory where they won't be faced with Democratic opposition.

Brewster said the Republicans now figure their toughest battles will come in Oklahoma, Kentucky, West Virginia, Michigan, Illinois, New Jersey and Idaho.

At the same time, he said the GOP has its greatest hopes of unseating Democrats in New Mexico, Montana, Rhode Island and Colorado.

Bonds were mixed.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS

Chicago, March 2—(AP)—Grain futures ranged lower in the board of trade session today. The decline in corn was the sharpest. Selling by commission houses uncovered spot loss orders, and the deferred deliveries scored heaviest losses.

Wheat followed corn downward.

More moisture over the winter wheat section, and lack of indications of government buying were factors in the decline.

Soybeans were independently strong, scoring limit advances of 6 cents before offerings were made more liberal.

Cotton futures moved over a wide range in mixed dealings today, with price leaders in late trading following a broad, overall movement in Monday's trading.

Traders were inclined to await further Washington developments on the foreign aid programs which involves large cotton exports.

and the three-man subcommittee which has been investigating the government's atomic energy program for more than a year.

In Secretary Harriman's absence from Washington, Undersecretary William Foster issued a statement saying the Commerce Department's loyalty board had conducted a hearing "as a result of questions that had been raised regarding Dr. Condon."

"In its report, dated Feb. 24, 1948," Foster's statement continued, "the board stated its unanimous opinion that no reasonable grounds exist for believing that Dr. Condon is disloyal to the United States."

As Thomas arranged to speed the findings to the White House, Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) called a meeting of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee to study the House group's report.

The senator withheld comment but Rep. Elston (R-Ohio), the top House member on the joint committee, called for "immediate steps to end out and if the report is accurate."

"Anyone connected with atomic energy and tinged with communism should be removed," Elston said. He added that he had no prior knowledge of the case.

NOTICE

In his "Mission to Moscow" reports that both Barnes and his wife were radicals and says he was "informed" that Mrs. B. was much more radical than her husband. He described her, a little fearfully, it seemed, as a woman, in fewer words. Davies might have added that she had formerly been the wife of Frederick Vanderbilt Field, a millionaire who was cited 25 times in the reports of the Dies Committee on Un-American Activities up to 1946 and 18 times in the current of Russian totalitarian and communist affairs in the United States. Field is an associate in the ideological work of Corliss Lamont, the voluptuous paradox of Wall Street and Union Square who gets an income of about $16,000 from the sentimental provider of his late father, Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of the board of J. P. Morgan and Co. Corliss lives like a rich Hollywood illiterate struck with social conscience, and maintains a group of 15 C. I. O. union publications in New York whose policies might offend Americans but never a Muscovite.

Such "recognition" of course, is understood to confer prestige on the route who gets it. The responsibility therefore lies with the New York Herald Tribune for whatever conclusions the public may draw.

Lewis Gannett is the poor reviewer. Gannett's selections of books seem whimsical. In a review of a book by Robert S. Allen, formerly a professional political gossip in Washington, Gannet remarked gratuitously that "the church-riding city (Boston) is one of the most corrupt in America."

The church is the Catholic church and the intention plainly was to say that the Catholic clergy of Boston were morally guilty in this corruption. A much worse corruption has existed before. Gannett's eyes all these years without similar reproof. That is the horrible degradation of labor and the union movement by rascals carrying credentials from the Roosevelt party and bureaus.

The wise and stately Mark Sullivan's ethical lectures are less and less frequent and are drowned out by strident clamor on the left. The H-T (then the Tribune) was an ivy tongued paper which thought the two classes were getting out of hand with Penn State and Notre Dame placed a few barbs on the second and third squads of Walter Camp's All-American selections about the outbreak of the first war.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton, and of course Oxford and Cambridge, were the only legitimate institutions of learning, and when Camp succumbed to pusillanimous, nominating rude Poles and Lithuanians, a corner of the world caved in. Walter Lippmann still celebrates irregularly and the writer of nostalgic editorials on sun-moon-snowdrops and maple syrup in the season still throws crumbs to the old girls in the reading rooms of the Little League and the racquet and tennis and in the club car of the Wall street special to Greenwich.

We find interesting indications rather than declarations of policy.

A few months ago, one of the executive editors of the H-T went on the air in a discussion with William S. Gannett. That is anyone's privilege in a country still freer than many of the H-T's friends would like for us to be. However, Gannett is not only a notorious liar and a preacher of the Communist line of political propaganda with regard to Poland and Europe generally, but he was a Hitler in the late war, he yelled for blood but kept himself safely sedentary here at home. He was exposed as a corruption.

He still doesn't call a Communist a Communist, although the Herald Tribune did not hesitate to identify the Catholic church as a degrading institution in Boston. It might be observed here that there is no force in the United States more vigorously opposed to Communism than the church which Mr. Gannett damned as a corruption.

It could make arrest without warrants.

America May Be Just Little Late in Seeking a Final Showdown With Red Russia

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Britain's sagacious war-time prime minister, Winston Churchill, not long ago advocated in the House of Commons that the Western democracies unite and seek a showdown with Russia before the latter developed atomic weapons. Sound advice — but have we delayed too long? It certainly makes one wonder when a House of Representatives Un-American Activities sub-committee reports that the U. S. Bureau of Standards, which has been working on atomic energy processes, "has become the target of espionage agents of numerous foreign powers."

Not only that but the subcommittee asserts that Dr. Edward U. Condon, head of the bureau, is "one of the weakest links in our atomic security." The subcommittee charges he "knowingly or unknowingly entertained and associated with persons who are alleged Soviet espionage agents" and "had lent his name and influence to one of the principal Comsunist endeavors in the United States."

Dr. Condon told a reporter later:

"I am one of the weakest links in the nation's atomic security, this is gratifying information, because I'm absolutely reliable and therefore we (the nation) have nothing to worry about. The country can relax."

As for the allegation about his associations, the doctor commented: "That's just too vague to talk about. I certainly didn't do it knowingly."

There's a lot more to the report, but that's enough to send a chill down the spine of any loyal citizen.

A chill, but no panic! Let us hope that we have been forewarned, for what we are forewarned is to be forearmed.

What we need now is energetic action to put our defenses in shape, and quit this bank about poor Russia being driven to aggression because she is in mortal fear of attack by the United States. The Soviet isn't afraid, but is in process of carrying out a campaign of long-planned world conquest.

The brazen and brutal enslavement of Czechoslovakia by the Reds already had convinced the major Western democracies finally that the time had arrived when it would be flirting with disaster if they let Russia push them about any more. This atomic report ought to put a cap on that decision.

Suspect Released in Mississippi Murder Case

Jackson, Miss., March 1 (AP)—The Mississippi Highway patrol today released a man who had been arrested in Rolling Fork, Miss., for questioning in the slaying of Memphis businessman Charles Gerber last Friday.

Highway Patrolman R. Morgan said an investigation disclosed that the man's whereabouts at the time of the slaying were definitely established. The man was not identified.

Meanwhile, Jackson police searched Jackson's Negro section for another man sought in the slaying. He was reported seen there late Sunday.

Gerber's body and that of his Negro chauffeur were found late Friday near Hernando, Miss. His Packard automobile was found later just outside Bentonia, Miss., about 10 miles from Hernando. Both men had apparently been shot in the head by someone sitting in the car's back seat. Police theorized that the hitchhiker who was reported riding with Gerber shortly before his death had committed the crime.

As for the allegation about his associations, the doctor commented: "That's just too vague to talk about. I certainly didn't do it knowingly."

There's a lot more to the report, but that's enough to send a chill down the spine of any loyal citizen. A chill, but no panic! Let us hope that we have been forewarned, for what we are forewarned is to be forearmed.

Indicates U.S.
Steel Flirting
With Disaster

Washington, March 2 — (UP) Sen. Robert A. Taft, R. O., told the president of the U. S. Steel industry is flirting with disaster by increasing steel prices.

He made the statement to Benjamin F. Fairless, who was testifying before Taft's joint congressional economic committee.

Fairless retorted that the recent $5 a ton increase in the price of semi-finished steel products was justified by higher costs.

The economic committee summoned Fairless and other steel industry leaders to tell about that price increase, which President Truman also has ordered investigated by government agencies.

The congressional committee will decide after hearing the industry leaders whether to undertake an investigation of its own.

Taft questioned Fairless after the steel executive read a prepared statement calling on him "in the public interest" to drop both third-round wage increases.

Otherwise, he said, labor must take responsibility for higher prices on steel and other products.

Taft brought up that point in his questioning. He asked whether Fairless also believed there should be no further price increases in order to avoid an inflationary spiral.

"There should be neither wage increases nor price increases," Fairless replied. "But I feel that business should be conducted on a sound economic basis and at a profit."

He explained that what he meant was that U. S. steel was losing money on its semi-finished the Atlantic, even before the atomic sensation broke, was well summed up in an editorial by the powerful London "Times": "The only way now to settle with Russia — and the peace of the world depends upon it — is to take up the challenge and bring both the recovery program (the Marshall Plan and Western Union of Europe) to a successful outcome."

The Marshall Plan is now before the U. S. Senate, and Senator Vandenberg, chairman of the Foreign Relations committee, yesterday appealed for approval of the program to "help stop World War III before it starts." He declared that while "any thought of another war is abhorrent to our soul," "peace and agreement are not on speaking terms."

The project of a Western European union, recently proposed by British Secretary of State Bevin, also is being pushed to a decision. U. S. Secretary of State Marshall has endorsed this plan, and there has been speculation — which officials privately approve — that in due course the United States might welcome an alliance with the countries of Western Europe.

This thought of bringing military power into the picture through an alliance also was raised at the week-end in England by none less than Anthony Eden, who ten years ago resigned as foreign secretary in the Chamberlain cabinet because he no longer could countenance the appeasement of Dictators Hitler and Mussolini. Eden last Saturday urged close collaboration of the Western powers and America in a program of mutual assistance covering the economic, political and military fields.

Czechoslovakia plus the atomic sensation should make horse-sense jell in our dealings with the Bolshevik menace.

River Flood Warnings Are Issued

Little Rock, March 2 — (UP)

Flood warnings on the lower Ouachita River were prepared by the U. S. Weather Bureau today, following a heavy rain.

The bureau said: "All rivers in the Little Rock district will rise during the next two to five days." However, it added, "flood stages are indicated only on the lower Black and Ouachita rivers and on the White below Newport."

The weather bureau said the Ouachita River was reported at 30.8 feet at Arkadelphia today following 2.2 inches of rain and predicted it would reach 22 to 23 feet there tomorrow. Flood stage at Arkadelphia is 17 feet.

The weather man added that the water reached 32.6 feet at Camden today and would crest at 35 feet there on March 5 or 6. Flood stage at Camden is 26 feet.

"I have heretofore made my position clear. I shall not discuss it further.

"I again request that my name be not filed for a position for which I am not a candidate. If it is filed despite this urgent and earnest request, I ask by Nebraska friends to confine their primary votes to others.

"The reply apparently left the way open for McConnell to go ahead with a move to place Vandenberg's name before Nebraska voters. McConnell is chairman of a bi-partisan committee seeking a "full choice" for his state's voters. He listed names of six Republicans and a Democrat yesterday but held off temporarily on Vandenberg.

Vandenberg's telegram also was interpreted by politicians immediately as indicating he would accept the nomination if it came to him as a result of a genuine draft at the June Republican convention. Vandenberg outlined his views in a national magazine (Life) a year ago.

At that time, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee wrote:

"I am not a candidate.

"I do not expect or wish to be a candidate.

"I shall seek no convention delegates to approve the efforts of others in this behalf."

But Vandenberg went on to say: "Of course, I would yield to a spontaneous draft" (if that hypothesis must be included) because I do not believe any citizen has a right to deny service to his country if and when his service is demanded."

Houses will be sprayed during the mosquito season with 7½ percent DDT solution, found to kill mosquitoes and flies effectively for a period of eight months. Last year, 5 percent DDT solution was applied which retarded its killing power for about four months. It was necessary, therefore, to spray most houses twice during the mosquito season.

With the obvious reduction in labor costs made possible by the new one-spray system, the individual house spray fee has been reduced to $2 from the 1947 program fee charge of $3.

Hempstead county can expect the arrival of spray crews around April 1, according to an announcement by John Goodwin, malaria control supervisor of this county.

steel although showing a substantial profit on many of its other products.

Taft asked whether the $150,000,000 which U. S. steel made after taxes in 1947 was not a record.

"Oh, no," Fairless replied. In 1946, he said the corporation made $271,000,000; in 1917 it made $224,000,000 and in 1929 the profit was $107,000,000.

Taft then wanted to know whether the steel price increase might not have been offset by decreases in prices of other steel products. He said the "moral effect on the country" had been that steel had increased prices at a time when it was making record profits.

Fairless retorted that the steel price increase had been "misunderstood."

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D. Wyo., interrupted to ask how it was that in view of its "sad" financial picture U. S. steel had been able to declare an extra dividend last December.

"Out of our earnings, of course," Fairless said.

Here and There in Arkansas

Little Rock, March 2 — (AP) Col. T. H. Barton of El Dorado will continue to head the Arkansas Livestock Show Association.

He and other officers, A. H. Stebbins, Little Rock, vice-president; Dave Grundfest, Little Rock, treasurer; and Clyde E. Byrd, El Dorado, secretary-manager, were re-elected at meeting of the board of governors here yesterday.

The board also elected Owen Barton, Beebe, W. E. Fletcher, Lonoke, B. Morris, McGehee, C. S. Gordon, Conway, W. H. Williams, Little Rock, Collier, W. L. Wren, Fort Smith, and Byrd as new members.

Earliest possible construction of a $750,000 coliseum on the livestock showgrounds here was authorized and Oct. 4-10 was selected as dates for the 1948 show.

Little Rock, March 1—(P)—Miss Vera Snook, Little Rock librarian for 22 years and former president of the Arkansas Library Association, died at a hospital here today.

Miss Snook was elected president of the state association in 1929 and again in 1934, and served on the State Library Commission during the administration of former Gov. J. Marion Futrell.

She was a native of Ottawa, Ill.

Camden, March 1—(P)—Five destroyed the drying room of the Williams Roofing plant at White City, two and a half miles south of Camden early today. The loss was estimated at $50,000 to $75,000 by Manager H. L. Harrington.

Little Rock, March 1—(P)—Arkansas tax collections in February totalled $8,018,667, the State Revenue Department reported today. Auto license sales produced $1,519,907; gasoline taxes $1,420,376, and sales tax, $1,558,963. Collections in February last year totalled $5,581,977.

Little Rock, March 2—(P)—The Camden city council has no authority to raise a levy for police and firemen's pensions beyond the one-half mill voted at a general election in November 1947. Attorney General Guy E. Williams said today.

The pension rate may be increased only by another popular vote, Camden Police Chief G. B. Cole was advised.

In another opinion, the attorney general held that act 111 of 1947 did not repeal county salary acts already in effect.
